

Opening a Shopping Mall in Los Angeles

Author: Shiyun Lu

Introduction

There are plenty of malls in Los Angeles. However, there will never be enough of them. If someone with a lot of money wants to open a new shopping mall in L.A., data science should come in to help.

So what is an ideal location for Los Angeles to open a new shopping mall? This will be the problem we stick to in the following process of exploring.

DATA

1. Neighbourhood information of the greater Los Angeles area.
2. 2.Geographical information (latitude and longitude) of the greater Los Angeles area.
3. 3.Venue data of the greater Los Angeles area.

DATA

The Los Angeles government offered a list of zip codes of L.A. (http://file.lacounty.gov/SDSInter/lac/1031552\_MasterZipCodes.pdf) from where we are able to extract L.A. neighbourhood information. For Geographical information (latitude and longitude) we can get it from Python package and for venue data we are able to get it from Foursquare API according to the methods

Clustering

	Neighborhood	Shopping Mall	Cluster Labels	Latitude	Longitude
0	Angelino Heights	0.0	0	34.07029	-118.25480
123	Panorama City	0.0	0	34.22302	-118.44875
124	Park La Brea	0.0	0	34.06257	-118.35774
125	Picfair Village	0.0	0	34.04500	-118.36528
126	Pico Robertson	0.0	0	34.05575	-118.38000

Conclusion

Cluster 1 has lower density of shopping malls, thus opening a new shopping mall will be a better choice as cluster 2 may have already had enough malls.

Thank you!
